MEET OUR TEACHER

Mrs. Sharow Abe

Teaching is the only profession which moulds and creates other professions. That is what motivated me as a teacher. It is really divine to touch the young minds and make a place in their life as these young minds are the future. With immense pleasure I would like to introduce myself as part of the Shlok International school.

Here in Shlok International, we focus on the holistic development of our students. We nurture our young minds to explore their dreams and show them that sky is not the limits. Being a teacher from inception, I feel proud to see the growing stages of the students in our Shlok International. I ensure that each and every student in my class feels supported and encouraged to reach their full potential. I really feel myself blessed to be part of Shlok International School.

Then you will never have to wonder
About what you could have done.

Parents Read: Tune into the natural world

People who engage with nature are happier, and children who interact with nature are more social and well-behaved. How can we help our families feel more connected?

You are well aware that children benefit from outside play. They also benefit from spending time in nature. We all do. Studies reveals that it isn't just a matter of spending time — of being physically present.

Children who have an emotional or psychological connection to nature have fewer behavioral issues.

They are more "prosocial" - they are more likely to sympathize with others and to lend a helpful hand.

Children who connect with nature, like adults, have a stronger feeling of contentment and well-being.

Tips to engage kids with nature:

- Monitoring small container garden
- Visit neighbourhood parks
- Participate in activities involving bird feeding/watching
- Keep a nature journal ON
- Learn to protect local wildlife
